

FREWEN PREP SCHOOL: A PARENT'S VIEW

"Our two boys have just completed their first term at Frewen College and we are very pleased with how well they have settled in. Prior to Frewen school life was really hard and they both hated it.

They worked very hard but could see that, try as they might, they were falling behind their peers and the effect this was having on their self-esteem was massive. I would even go as far as to say that for our eldest it was at rock bottom when it came to schooling and education.

However, within two weeks of starting at Frewen you could visibly see that they had both relaxed and going to school is now a positive experience. In part that is down to how welcoming the school has been and the fact they teach in a genuinely dyslexic way (which makes such a difference!) but I genuinely think the part played by simply being with other children, who are just as dyslexic as they are, cannot be underestimated.
